An Announcement.

When the present incumbent in the county superintendent's office, Prof. D. K. Donnell, announced more than a year ago that he would not be a candidate for the office again, numerous friends of mine over the county asked me to enter the race for the office. I gave no encouragement to those requests and have never considered entering the race until the last few weeks. These requests for me to enter the race have come from members of the court, from teachers and from patrons and friends of the public schools and have grown to such an extent that I can no longer refuse to accede to them. Both the candidates already announced asked me early in the year if I would run, and I stated to them as I felt then, that I had not considered doing such a thing. But I wish to say now, that I am following the desires of my friends and friends of the county schools who have been kind enough to say that they believe I am the man for the place. And if I can serve the school interests of the county it shall be my pleasure to do so.

I made the race for this office twice before, standing the examination in 1902 and securing a grade that entitled me to a permanent certificate of qualification. Members of the county court felt then that the office should go to Mr. Donnell who, had himself formerly been defeated by the superintendent just retiring at that time. If this idea is entertained by the court at the present time as it was then, my claims for the office should come first.

My fitness for the work should be well known thruout the county. I was principal of some of the leading public schools of the state for fifteen years, eight years of the school in Somerville. I used every effort at my command in the interest of the present high school when it was being considered and have been one of its most zealous friends since it became an actuality. And while serving as a teacher I believe, and my belief is shared by many who were familiar with my work, that some of the best educated boys and girls ever going from a public school were turned out from the local high school.

As a newspaper owner I have opened my columns free of charge to the public school interests of this county, the county superintendent, the principal of the county high school, and teachers in the public schools having free access for the publication of school items. My interest in the schools has never waned during the years since I retired from teaching and now with the prospect of again becoming active in the school work I feel that it is only returning to first love.

It will be my purpose to see every member of the county court in person and lay my claims for the office before him between now and the election in January. And I desire to have exercised in my behalf such good influences as my qualifications and my life in the school work warrant. If honored by the county court by being elected to the office of superintendent I will be in position to give to the office the very best energies of my life and I promise the court and the public to do every thing possible to make the schools of this county keep up the progress already begun and to keep in the front rank of the schools of the state.

Do you know there's lots o' people setting round in every town, growing like a broody chicken— knocking every good thing around? Don't you be that kind o' cattle, 'Cause they ain't no use on earth, You just be a town booster— Crow and boost for all you're worth.

Try the sunny side of the street. Do some good turn for another. Lighten the load of a life that is compelled to often walk through shadows and the sunshine will come to your heart. There is always joy and real satisfaction in knowing that we are doing real good.

The Falcon has just gotten out for the officials of Moscow some attractive stationery. This is a splendid way to let outsiders know a people have the right spirit.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Medicine that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address F. We notice in a recent issue of a religious publication a likeness of Rev. Ray who some weeks ago closed a revival meeting at the local Baptist church. Mention was also made of his singer, Jack Johnson. About the time this singer was with us our own "Jack" Johnson barely escaped death by fire, which fact we did not mention at the time lest the two get mixed up by the readers. However, our "Jack" Johnson, whose stable caught on fire in some manner, is still with us hale and hearty and his melodious voice rings out strongly as ever although the tune is far from entertaining.

John Josiah Morrison.

In the death of Mr. J. J. Morrison of Laconia, Fayette county loses one of her oldest and best citizens.

Mr. Morrison was born of Josiah and Maggie Morrison August 7, 1837, in the state of North Carolina.

He was but three months old when his parents moved to Tennessee and settled in Fayette county where he spent the remainder of his days.

There were nine children in the family, all of whom with mother and father have passed over the "Silent River" save one sister, Mrs. A. Z. Day of Somerville.

Mr. Morrison was but 24 years old when the Civil War began. When the call came he was among the first to leave home and loved ones to take arms in defense of the honor of the South. The first battle in which he engaged was at Shiloh, the "Field of Blood." He also fought in the "Battle Above the Clouds" and Chickamauga. He gave the very best that was in him to his country.

In 1869 he was happily married to Miss Indiana Christian of Hardeman county, Tennessee. To this union were born seven children, four of whom, with their mother, survive him: John W. Morrison of Somerville, Mrs. R. L. Baldrige of Jackson, Mrs. N. C. Rinehart of Corinth, Mississippi, and Robert Taylor Morrison of Laconia.

At the age of 17 years he professed faith in Christ as his Savior and united with the Southern Presbyterian church at old Bethany. Later that church was reorganized at Rehoboth and his membership was transferred there. In 1884 he was elected an elder in the church and made a splendid officer. For many years he served as clerk of the Session.

Mr. Morrison was a modest, unassuming gentleman, a man of clear vision and generous heart, loved by all and loving all.

Funeral services were held at Union church conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. A. Harper.

Masonic services were said at the grave, Mr. Morrison having been a member of this fraternity for fifty years.

EDUCATIONAL.

FAYETTE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL OPENING.

On September 11th, the Fayette County High School will open its doors for the annual session. We feel that this year is going to mark one more step in the educational development of this county and that it should be one of our very best years from every standpoint. The indications are for a record enrollment, and as the faculty has been strengthened by the addition of an agricultural teacher, there is no reason why these hopes should not be realized.

The faculty for the coming year is as follows: G. G. Foskett, A. B., M. A., principal and mathematics; W. O. Sharp, B. S. A., agriculture and science; Miss Lillian Osier, English and history; Miss Euphemia Moore, home economics and English; Miss Mary Lou Digge, Latin and mathematics. Mr. Foskett has been in the county all summer and has visited a number of the rural schools as well as the homes of the people and has talked to many students who are coming to Somerville to attend the High School. A few students desire some form of work to help pay their expenses and if any citizen has such work he will confer a favor by notifying the principal.

Mr. Sharp comes to us highly recommended from the University of Tennessee and from all reports is full of enthusiasm for his work. We welcome him as a long needed addition to the faculty and trust that his work will bear fruit. Miss Osier has been in attendance at the summer session of the Peabody College for Teachers at Nashville and there gained much that will be of value to her and to the school the coming year. Miss Moore has been spending the summer in Texas, but will return the first of September to take up her work. Miss Diggs has been at home in Paris, Tennessee, and will arrive in this city soon.

The parents of pupils are welcomed to all our exercises and it is hoped that they will avail themselves of every opportunity to visit the school and get acquainted with the teachers. Examinations for those pupils who have back work to make up will be held on the 7th and 8th of September and all students as far as possible are asked to call at the principal's office on Saturday, September 9, for enrollment and classification. The building and grounds will be put in first class order by the opening day and everything possible done for the convenience of the pupils and teachers.

The faculty for the Somerville City Schools, which opens the same day, is as follows: Miss Kate Higgs, Miss Mattie Lee Farris, and Mrs. Lois Hobson.

First Bale August 30

On Wednesday, August 30, C. W. Graham, who lives on Route 6 near this city brought to Somerville the first bale of the new crop of cotton to reach this market. The bale was ginned by J. S. Taylor, manager of the Union Gin and Fertilizer Company's gin in this city and made no charge for ginning and wrapping. It weighed 466 pounds and was sold to G. W. Locke at 14.85 and brought Mr. Graham $69.20. A cash premium of $5 was raised for the first bale, and The Falcon is crediting Mr. Graham with a year's subscription of a $1.50, the seed sold at $15, making the bale and seed bring its grower within a few cents of $95, not bad for a bale weighing less than 500 pounds.

The first bale last season was brought in by the same party and came in on September 4 six days later than was the one this year.

Black Locust In West Tennessee.

Gather Black Locust Seed.

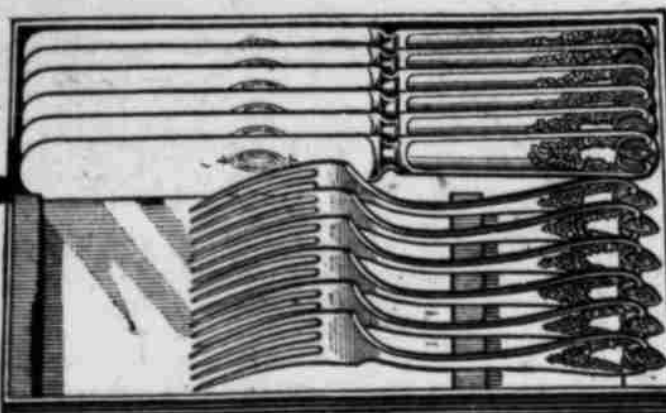

More than fifty thousand black locust seedlings, nursery grown, were bought by the farmers of West Tennessee last spring. They were set out for two purposes; viz., to reclaim gullied land and to grow posts, both of which give a return in money. With care and a little attention, every farmer who wishes to grow his own seedlings can do so. The seed of the black locust are now ripe, the pods dry. They begin ripening about the middle of July and there is a good crop of them. If the landowner will spend an hour or two gathering them, he will have enough to sow a fairly good seed bed next spring. It costs only a little time and effort to secure them and by planting them the landowner learns something about tree growth. Several men in West Tennessee planted the black Locust seed last spring to grow their own seedlings. Among them are Mr. C. W. Cleaver, at Hollow Rock, and Mr. Joe Johnson, at Martin. Their small trees vary in height from six inches to practically six feet now. Mr. Cleaver's are estimated between three and five thousand in number, grown from sowing a half pound of seed. Practically their only expense has been the cost of the seed, which had to be bought at the rate of 60 cents per pound. If the landowner who wishes seed would spend sixty cents worth of time in gathering them he could get enough to grow several thousand seedlings.

If the owners who gather seed this summer will send a statement of the number of pounds they secure to the Forester of the State Geological Survey, Nashville, Tennessee, he will be glad to keep a record of it so as to know how much will be ready to plant next spring, and who will do the planting.
